

Keywords: terminology, socio-terminology, term, touristic terminology

Abstract: From a linguistic point of view, a terminology does not appear at a first sight as an assemble of notions but as an assemble of expressions naming in the natural language the notions revealing a field of knowledge well thematic. The term is a symbol, a physical stimulus representing conventionally a notion or an individual object. The convention can be exemplified under the form of a notion. It can be better defined under the form of a norm. It can also be defined under better circumstances through consensus and it develops itself under the expression of a job, as it can be sees within some vocabularies dealing about folk jobs, agricultural ones, industrial or touristic.
